Dear Distinguished Editors,

Thank you for the revision from the reviewers. I have rewrite some technical issues as stated in your revision checklists. The changes are with these details:

AQ1: As I used Mendeley, it is wrongly formatted the reference detail, and I have edited accordingly.

AQ2 & 3: I have deleted it as I peered down the article, and could not found the reference in the body of the article.

AQ4: I have added the volume number italicized

AQ5: I have deleted the dot in the reference, as the author in the name of Basuki only has a single name and no surname.

I hope these revisions could meet your requests.

Kind Regards,

Muhammad Wahyuddin Abdullah

Dear Editor,

We have carefully checked your revisions, highlight the changes in yellow. Our responses to the questions are:

AQ1: We have edited the data in Mendeley and refresh it to obtain the real citing format.

AQ2 & AQ3: We have deleted the reference of Baird et al. 2013 as we do not find it in our reference.

The edited document is attached.

Thanks for further revising my paper. I have read it and we can provide the following responses:
AQ1, AQ2, & AQ3: The said references have technical issues with Mendeley. For the citation of Rahman et al. (AQ1) The Mendeley field was not correctly filled. Baird et al (AQ2 & 3), The Mendeley incorrectly cites a paper with the abstract from the author who not in the paper. As we tried to resolve the result of these issues, we decided to erase those 2 references from our paper, and reformat our paper without the Mendeley field. We have re-edit our corrections. I hope this could satisfy your corrections in AQ1-3.

Kind Regards,
Muhammad Wahyuddin Abdullah
